SEWING MACHINE

Is wonderful in its conception, ur-precedented for doing a large range of sewing in textile fabrics and leather. It makes six stitches, thus producing about one-third more work in a determined time than other Sewing Machines. It has no stop motions, and tightens the stitch with the needle out of the fabric. It uses the Well-known Wilson Compound Feed on both sides of the needle.

It has two-thirds less parts than any other first-class Sewing Machine.
Its arm is fully eight and one-half inches long and five and one-half inches high, and the whole Machine is very compact and sciertifically constructed in proportions, elegance, design and appearance. Its simple, powerful and perfect mechanism places it as far in advance of all other Sewing Machines as the telephone is superior to the tin speaking tube. The WILSON MENDING ATTACHMENT

Ladies

Do you want a pure, blooming complexion? If so, a few applications of Hagan's MAGNOLIA BALM will gratify you to your heart's content. It does away with Sal-lowness, Redness, Pimples, Blotches, and all diseases and imperfections of the skin. It overcomes the flushed appearance of heat, fatigue and excitement. It makes a lady of THIRTY appear but TWEN-TY; and so natural, gradual, and perfect are its effects, that it is impossible to detect its application.

"HAY-FOOT! STRAW-FOOT!"

Many boys and girls may have heard these names applied in a derisive way to new recruits who were making a beginning in their military education by learning to march; but very few young people—or old ones, either—know how the terms originated.

During the war of 1812, there was a great deal of drilling and training among the militia men all over the country, especially in the larger cities and towns, where the principal recruiting stations were situated. In New York City, much of the drilling of newly enlisted men was done in what is now City Hall Park, in front of a tavern which stood where the Sun newspaper building is located. Many of these would-be soldiers were from the country, and these, of course knew nothing at all about marching in military fashion. They could walk far enough, some of them, and work as hard and bear as much fatigue as any soldier in a regular army; but they walked as they pleased, and had no idea of "keeping step." It is even said that there were fellows among them who did not know their right from their left, and who were therefore continually getting themselves and their companions into disorder by mixing up their legs,—that is, moving out their right leg when the officer who was drilling them called out "Left!" and the other leg when he called out "Right!" If they could have put both legs forward at once, it is probable that they would sometimes have done so.

To make these men understand exactly which leg was meant when the officers gave his orders, a curious plan was devised. Around the right leg of each man, just below the knee, was tied a wisp of hay, while a wisp of straw was tied to his left leg. Now these country fellows knew very well the difference between hay and straw, and so, when they were taught in line and the officer gave the word to march, and called out, "Hay-foot! straw-foot!" each one of them understood exactly which leg was the foot he must put forward.

It sometimes happened, however, that a man would be so busy observing his companions,—and perhaps making fun, at the same time, of their attempts to walk like soldiers,—that he would forget his own business, and not forward his "straw-foot," when "straw-foot" was called for.

"It must have been very funny to see these raw recruits—here a country ois-ter in high boots and striped shirt; there a farmer in his shirt-sleeves and broad straw hat; then, perhaps, a village doctor or school-master, with his high beaver hat and his spectacles, with a tall boy near by in top and short jacket—all marching side by side with hands down by their sides, thumbs turned out, eyes fixed on the officer as he stepped backward before them, and all keeping time to the monotonous call of "Hay-foot! straw-foot!"
hay-foot! straw-foot!"

The regular soldiers who may have been drilling at the same time probably laughed, if they did not dare laugh, at these queer-looking men, with their hay and straw bound legs; but the mothers and fathers and sisters of the recruits, if any of them chanced to come to town to see their sons or brothers drill, doubtless thought the affair a fine military display, and that Jeremiah or Caleb would be a general yet, if the war lasted longer among them.

gentle, amiable and religious. This peculiarity is the worst development of modern crime. Formerly thieves in their face and conduct. Now this is all hidden and we don't know what what or who's who.—New York

Old Buckwheat was trundling a barrow full of bricks along the street the other day, when a friend asked what he was going to do with them. "Build a brick house on a gold basis," he answered. "I don't understand what you mean," said the friend. "I mean," replied Old Buckwheat smiling, "that I have got the same percentage of bricks for a house that you hard-money fellows have got of gold for your resumption nonsense. I'm going to put my bricks in the cellar, lock them up, and go on living in a balloon frame as usual. Do you understand now?"—(Olean (N. Y.) Record.)

Washington Letter.

[From our regular correspondent.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30, '79.

What to do about the last veto, and how to close up business and get out of Washington, is a question that has bothered Congress some the past few days. A majority of the Democrats had and have adjourned anyhow, and left the courts to suffer the consequences of the veto, but enough were opposed to this plan to defeat it by voting with the Republicans. In fact, it was impossible for the Democrats to adjourn without the consent of the other side, as they have not a quorum of either house, by themselves, owing to the large number of absentees. So "here we are again," as the clown says, scarcely knowing what may happen by to-morrow. It may be that we will all get a holiday by the 4th of July, but I would not bet anything on it, and am not going to make any rash predictions.

In all my experience here I have never seen Congress doing business with such a small number of members in attendance. The vote on Tuesday, on the motion to adjourn sine die, disclosed the fact that only 186 members of the House are now here, which would leave 107 to be accounted for.
That is a pretty strong showing of absentees. Here we have Congress trying to legislate and dispose of important questions with nearly half the members sentured all over the world, leisure, and some are at the seashore or in the mountains, or at home, paying no heed to the duties they were elected to discharge. It so happens that the Democrats, as a party, are the greatest sufferers by this state of things, as, for the lack of a quorum of their own, they have been powerless to dictate a course of procedure. But, without reference to parties at all, the matter is seriously wrong. The public interests are confided to these Representatives, and they are well paid to attend to them. If unable or unwilling to do so, they should resign.

There are plenty of men—men of ability and judgment and fidelity—who would faithfully discharge the duties for the salary paid, or for much less.

Among the skulkers is Fernando Wood, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and there are many even among the Democrats, who wish he would never return. Of all the useless, superannuated old humbugs on top of ground, Fernando Wood is about the worst. There is some talk of reorganizing the Ways and Means Committee in his absence, and it would be hard to find a man, unless it is speaker Randall, who don't think it ought to be done. This committee used to be a sort of Committee on brains. It furnished a policy for the majority, and its chairman was a leader on the floor.

Wood is a useful and ready, but since Wood has occupied the place the committee is about the least important one of the whole fifty-four. A committee on spittoon would outrank it. The tariff will never be revised, and the proposed income tax will never be brought forward so long as Fernando Wood can set down on both measures by closing up his committee-room and going off to Europe.

Another lot of military and naval orders have just been graduated at West Point and Annapolis. The cost of turning out these classes every year is no small item, and they go at once upon the already large list of salaried superannaries. Those who prefer can take $750 each in cash, in lieu of two years' pay, and go where they please. But as they won't have any duties to perform anyhow, few will be likely to accept that offer. It is not the fault of these young men that they are to be, for many years at least, utterly useless to the Government that has educated them at such great cost, and which will continue to support them at constantly increasing cost. It is the fault of a vicious system that will never be improved until the horde of superfluous stipendiaries becomes so grievous a burden that the people declare against it. Then the pruning knife of reform will be applied roughly and unsuitably, and as much harm done as good will be done. It would be vastly better if Congress would cut down the supply of army and naval cadets to the actual needs of the service. By so doing and by the exercise of reasonable care in promotion, the expenses might be kept within proper bounds. If this is not done, we have no doubt that before many years the infantry of the over-fed people will have and a much less judicious mode of relief. Every friend to the officers of the army and navy, desiring the advancement of their best interests, will hope that Congress may give serious attention to this growing evil.

Senator Lamar has gone to Mississippi to deliver some addresses, and will not return this session, probably. Nothing more will ever be heard of the late unpleasantness between him and Conkling, except that they will be unfriendly, as are Blaine and Conkling, Burnside and Conkling, Schurz and Conkling, Fenton and Conkling, and lately Don Cameron and Conkling. It is a pretty hard nut for Conkling when the correspondent all but up and fled out of the gallery, another night, while he was speaking. It was a thing never before witnessed here. By the way, to change the subject, it is said that an Ohio man has telegraphed Hayes to keep the position of Prince Imperial open for him. Don Pedro.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.

There have been longer sessions of Congress than this one, but none, I think, in which the wishes of the people at large were more completely ignored. Those members of Congress who forced the extra session, and the President, who called it, had but one object in so doing. That was to make up or revive issues on which the old old parties could still exist. To do this the attention of the people must be attracted, through their patriotism, their sectionalism, or their passions, from the consideration of their own immediate and urgent necessities.

The politicians who led both sides as politicians always are, false to the interests of the people. The measures which our side proposed to repeal, and which the other side defended, may or may not have been judicious and proper, but either way, they were of comparative slight importance.

They did not threaten the Government or even disturb the public peace. With them in force, or with them repealed, the business of the country would have gone on the same.

It is for the voters of the country, an astonishingly large number of whom are already outside of old party lines, to decide whether Congress and Presidents were made to keep alive old issues or to act for the interest of living men. There will be an opportunity for those in Maine to answer early in September. Later in the season those of other States can speak.
There are most encouraging reports here from Maine.

I can heartily commend one act of the session which expires to-day, and that is the bill which authorizes a Commission to prepare plans for the improvement of the Mississippi River.
The President has done his part in appointing under it competent engineers, civil and military. It is for the Commission to act speedily in giving to Congress its suggestions.

By the time the Board reports, it will guarantee that a Congress will be in power here which will authorize the expenditure of such money as can be judiciously used in the improvement of navigation on that greatest of water highways.

Congress will adjourn to-day, and from all indications, will not be recalled by the President.

Some have refused to use "put up" medicines, simply because they do not know just how they are made. Do you refuse to accept the deductions and conclusions of the astronomer simply because you are unacquainted with his methods of calculation? You do not refuse to eat, and yet the exact process by which the food is assimilated into the structure of the body is unknown. Are you always able to translate the Latin prescriptions obtained from your family physician, and understand the effect of each remedy named, and the chemical change each may undergo when combined with another? Then why let such groundless objections debar you from using a remedy that has cured your neighbor?

Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Thousands have testified that it has speedily and permanently cured them of coughs, colds, incipient consumptions, and almost all forms of serofulous diseases. Can you doubt that it is a pure, potent, and valuable medicine? Are the parties whose names are published false witnesses?

count Book, given away by druggists.

VEGETINE

IS RECOMMENDED BY ALL Physicians.

VALLEY STRAIN, QUEENS CO.,
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

MR. H. R. STEVENS—
Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in writing you a small certificate concerning the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.
I have been a sufferer with the Dyspepsia for forty years, and have the Chronic Diarrhea for over six months, and have tried most every thing; was given up dead, and did not expect to live any longer, and no physician could touch my case. I saw your Vegetine recommended for Dyspepsia, and I commenced using it, and I continued until I am now a well man and restored to perfect health. All the ailments which I had of my health and spirits both feel the benefit of this medicine, and I would kindly recommend it to all who are afflicted with these ailments, and it is excellent as a blood purifier.

By Dr. T. B. FOWLER, M. D., of MINNESOTA.

VEGETINE—When the blood becomes thickened and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the patient is liable to new the blood, carry off the purged humors cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

Dear Sir:—This is to certify that I had been suffering from a Cancer of the right breast which grew very rapidly, and was in such a stage that I was given up to die, when I heard of your Vegetine, and I commenced using it, and I continued until

I regard it as a valuable FAMILY MEDICINE.

Jan. 1, 1878.

MR. H. R. STEVENS—
Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in saying that I have used the Vegetine in my family with good results, and I have known of several cases of remarkable cure effected by it. I regard it as a valuable family medicine, and I would kindly recommend it to all who are afflicted with these ailments, and it is excellent as a blood purifier.
